

Love Our Colleges Week – Lincoln College

During Love Our Colleges Week, I visited Lincoln College to celebrate the vital role colleges play in our community. From helping young people gain skills for the future to supporting adults returning to education, Lincoln College is doing brilliant work and I was grateful to hear from staff and students about the opportunities and challenges they face.

Monthly Surgery - Boultham

This month I held my regular surgery in Boultham, where residents came along to discuss a range of concerns. If you have an issue you'd like to raise, I am always here to help.

Wellbeing Event with the DWP

In partnership with the Department for Work and Pensions, I hosted a wellbeing event to bring together organisations offering support and advice for residents. Events like this help connect people with services that can make a real difference.

Door Knocking Across the City

I've also spent a lot of time out door knocking across Lincoln, speaking with residents about local issues and hearing your priorities first-hand as we get ready for the local elections in May. These conversations are invaluable and help ensure that the issues you raise are taken forward.

Community Coffee Morning - Park

It was fantastic to host this month's coffee morning in Park ward. Thank you to everyone who came along for a chat and shared their thoughts on local issues. These events are a great way to connect with residents in a relaxed setting.
